kind of had spoken with you once before about maybe doing a small, like half a case, exception or something like that, and that you had indicated to me that you were going to study that over the summer...

SENATOR JANSSEN: Um-hum.

SENATOR BOURNE: ...as well.

SENATOR JANSSEN: You bet. Yes, sir.

SENATOR BOURNE: Great. Thank you.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Janssen, you still have approximately a minute and a half.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Well, we...there is also one other way that...they can go through the...through a wholesaler here or a distributing company and only pay a $200 license right now, if they want to distribute through that distributor. So with that, I hate to see something like this put on this bill right now. I think it's unnecessary. If the body feels as though they want to do this, fine. But I'm afraid the repercussions, you aren't going to like them. With that, I hope you would reject the amendment.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Brown.

SENATOR BROWN: Mr. President, members, in response to some of the issues that Senator Bourne was raising that are not particularly applicable to this amendment, but the key, I think, that Senator Janssen said was about a case. And wineries that I contacted, that I'm aware of that are very small boutique wineries, won't even ship...will ship such a limited amount to any one person. Some of them you have to be on a list for a long time to even get access to their wines. And then they will only ship a certain number of bottles, and they would not ship to any individual in their, in these speciality kinds of wines, a full case. So that, that...the idea of having an exemption for less than a case, I think is probably something that would be very well received by those people who are interested in
